NEW ORLEANS

CHEAP EATS IN NEW ORLEANS

Where to Find the Best Budget Meals in New Orleans

There's no denying that dining out while on vacation can certainly get expensive quickly. But when you're in a new city (or revisiting an old favorite), you want to make sure you get to taste as much of the local flavor as you possibly can. And while there are certainly tons of restaurants worth splurging on in New Orleans, and several must-try dishes at every end of the cost spectrum, it's also refreshing to know that you can indulge in delicious meals without breaking the bank.

Bearcat Cafe

Whether you're looking for something healthy (good cat) or looking to indulge (bad cat), there is something on Bearcat's menu for any mood. The Biscuit Sandwich is a steal. It comes with egg, cheese, and bacon for $6. Wash it down with a coffee and you can still get a full breakfast for under $10 before exploring Freret Street Uptown, or visit their Central Business District location.

1000 Figs

If you're looking for a cozy neighborhood atmosphere and some of the best Mediterranean food in NOLA, look no further than 1000 Figs. The falafel sandwich will make you feel as though you are watching a Mediterranean sunset, and it's only $7.50. The warm, fluffy pita stuffed with red cabbage, tahini, pickled vegetables, and spices is a perfect combination of flavors

Superior Seafood & Oyster Bar

It wouldn't be a New Orleans food list if there wasn't some seafood somewhere on it. Superior's oyster happy hour is one of the best in the city, featuring $1.25 oysters every single day from 4-6:30 p.m. The happy hour also includes large-for-the-price-of-small frozen drinks—we're partial to the frozen French 75. Bonus: Superior Seafood is located right along the St. Charles Avenue streetcar line, so you can factor that $1.25 fare into a very affordable late afternoon snacking session.

The Rum House

Take your taco night to the extreme at The Rum House. With exceptional salads, a plethora of dips, and mouthwatering tacos, Rum House is not only the perfect spot for a fun night, but it also has a huge selection of cheap eats. Two favorites are the Duck Duck Goose Taco for $6 and the Creole Rib Tao for $6.

Neyow's Creole Cafe

Authentic Creole food will be devoured at this Mid-City hotspot. Get a three-course meal for under $30. A truly New Orleans meal would include a cup of filé gumbo ($7.75), hot sausage po-boy ($13.25), and beignet sticks ($8.25). For just $29.25, you can officially say you've tried the local New Orleans food.

The Joint

You can't go to the South without finding some sort of barbecue to stuff yourself with. The Joint keeps its Bywater charm with the local art-filled walls and offers a full meal that will leave you unbuttoning your top button for $10. The pulled pork sandwich comes on either white bread or a bun and is accompanied by one side. Make sure to save some time after this one for a food coma rest.

The Pagoda Cafe

Pagoda Café's menu may be short, but it's nonetheless delicious. Enjoy $4.50 breakfast tacos, $3.50 Banana Nutella bread, and $5 mango lassi, among other savory and sweet pastries. Enjoy these low-price offerings, plus coffee, tea, and specialty drinks.

Easy Tex-Mex Chicken and Rice

Ingredients:

1 tablespoon olive oil
2 cloves garlic, pressed
1/2 white onion, diced
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1/4 teaspoon ground turmeric
One 15-ounce can tomato sauce
One 10-ounce can diced tomatoes and green chiles
3 cups shredded rotisserie chicken
Two 8.8-ounce bags microwaveable white rice
1 1/2 cups grated pepper jack cheese
Fresh cilantro, for serving

Shredded rotisserie chicken, canned tomatoes and chiles and microwavable rice make for the easiest dinner ever. All you have to do is soften your onions and garlic, toast your spices, then pour everything else in and let it come together. A blanket of melty, bubbling pepper jack makes this dish even more comforting. You can easily leave out the chicken for a vegetarian side dish or include it for a hearty one-pot meal.

Directions:

- 1 In a deep skillet, heat the olive oil over medium-high heat. When the oil is hot, add the garlic, onion, chili powder, cumin, cayenne pepper, salt, pepper and turmeric. Cook, stirring often, until the onion is soft and the spices are toasted, about 3 minutes.
- 2 Pour in the tomato sauce, diced tomatoes and green chiles, chicken and both bags of rice. Stir together and cook until the rice is heated through and beginning to absorb some of the liquid, about 5 minutes. Turn the heat to low and sprinkle the pepper jack over the top. Cover with a lid and allow the cheese to melt completely, 2 to 3 minutes.
- 3 Sprinkle over the cilantro and serve.
